

What Employers Need to Know About Workplace Privacy Amid COVID-19

Publication

7.16.20

In their article for The Legal Intelligencer, Risa Boerner and Luke McDaniels explore privacy issues associated with the collection of new information in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. In an effort to create safe workplaces, employers may collect information from employees regarding their health status and contacts. Risa and Luke explore the privacy concerns related to collecting such information and provide best practices for how employers should lawfully collect, store and share this personal data, if necessary.

To read the full article, visit The Legal Intelligencer.

Related People

Risa B. Boerner, CIPP/US, CIPM

Partner

610.230.2132

Email

Service Focus

Privacy and Cyber