

Fisher Phillips Attorney Interviews with Associated Press on OSHA's Vaccine Mandate

News

11.05.21

In an interview with the Associated Press and syndicated across hundreds of publications nationwide, Nick Hulse offers his insight into what employers need to know about OSHA's vaccine mandate. Specifically, he discusses details about what exemption requests to the mandate might mean for employers. Normally, Nick says, religious exemption requests are straightforward: Someone, say, requests Sundays off to attend church or observe a day of rest. Now, it will be "difficult to tell if (anti-vaccine) beliefs are sincerely held, or are they just trying to use religion to get an accommodation?"

To read the article visit the Associated Press.

Please reach out to our Media team for any news inquiries.

Related People

Nicholas S. Hulse

Associate

704.778.4183

Email

Service Focus

Workplace Safety and Catastrophe Management

Related Offices

Charlotte