Overview

Madison Keller represents and counsels businesses involved in employment-related disputes including claims of harassment, discrimination and retaliation, as well as wage and hour violations and contract disputes.

Before joining Fisher Phillips, Madison focused on complex labor and employment and business litigation matters, contract disputes, and internal investigations as an associate in the Boston office of a full-service international law firm.

A graduate of Boston University School of Law, Madison gained experience representing clients in hearings and mediations as part of the school's Civil Litigation & Justice Program. She also represented debtors in negotiations and small claims trials as a student attorney in the Boston University School of Law Consumer Debt Practicum.
