Every day brings a new legal update affecting an employer's pay practices – whether from the Supreme Court, the New York legislature, or state and federal agencies. How can employers in New York possibly keep up? In this presentation, we'll discuss some tools employers have for avoiding costly wage and hour liability. We'll review key points on reviewing your organization's pay practices, best positioning your organization to deal with uncertainty, and best implementation of any necessary changes in a manner that reduces the risks of future claims regarding problem areas.
