In partnership with SD SHRM, please join Fisher Phillips attorneys Usama Kahf and Adam Sloustcher as they address some of the some of the key legal issues facing employers as businesses start re-opening and stay-at-home orders due to the COVID-19 pandemic expire. Usama and Adam will discuss the legal perspective specific to mid-market employers in California and answers questions, including:

- Can I tell someone who's been in contact to stay home?
- Can I temperature test my people as they come back to work?
- What's a reasonable reimbursement request?

- What if my employee says they don't feel comfortable coming back yet?
